How a Newspaper Ruined a Restaurant.

The proprietor of a restaurant advertised in an Arkansas newspaper, and refused to pay the bill at the end of the month, declaring that he had not realized any benefit and that he would not pay for what he did not receive. The newspaper man remonstrated, and the restaurant man ordered him out of the house. The next issue of the paper contained a few paragraphs which did not prove uninteresting to the restaurant man.

"The world has ever been filled with spiteful rivalry. The man who started the report that he found cat hair in the hash at Meckleton's restaurant is unquestionably a slanderer. We have eaten at his restaurant, and we can truthfully say that we never found cat hair in the hash nor dog hair in the soup. Another man regardless of truth, declared on the street yesterday that he had found three crickets and a horse fly in one of Meckleton's biscuits. This is too ridiculous. We never found three in his biscuit."

Another paragraph said "Meckleton's restaurant is the best house in town. Don't believe the slanderous rumor that he uses hospital sheets for table cloths."

The restaurant man was so mad that he wanted to shoot the editor, but cooling down a little, he swore out a warrant for arrest on a charge of slander. The editor was arraigned before the court, but the judge after hearing the evidence and reading the paper, dismissed the case. The restaurant hasn't had but one customer since and he was a blind man. Learning that he was in Meckleton's house, he heaved and went out. It is not right to cheat a newspaper. — [Arkansas Traveler.]

The Gatling machine gun is a block of ten barrels, secured round an axis, which is fixed in a frame. On turning a handle, a spindle causes the worm to act on the pinion, making the axis and barrels revolve. A drum is placed on the top, at the breech end of the barrels, over a hopper, through a slot in which the cartridges drop into the carrier, which consists of ten grooves on chambers corresponding to the ten barrels. A spiral spring forces the cartridges into position in chambers radiating from the centre of the drum. By turning the handle quickly, a continuous stream of bullets is ejected—about 1,000 a minute. As soon as one drum is emptied of bullets, another is brought from the limber and substituted. This gun is the invention of Dr. Gatling, an American, and has been in use about ten years.

How Western Cities Grow.—A Western man has been telling some Philadelphians how Western cities grow. He says he went off into the mountains hunting, and, night coming on, he went to sleep in a tree to be out of reach of the wolves. He was awakened early next morning by some workmen, who told him to get down and finish his nap on the court-house steps, as they wanted to turn that tree into a flag pole for the hotel across the way. He got down and while rubbing his eyes was nearly run over by a street car and got his feet tangled in electric light wires.

During a political campaign in Michigan a well-known lawyer was addressing an audience composed principally of farmers in Gratiot county. In order to win their confidence he said: "My friends, my sympathies have always been with the tillers of the soil. My father was a practical farmer, and so was my grandfather before him. I was myself reared on a farm, and was, so to speak, born between two stalks of corn." Here the speaker was rudely interrupted by some one in the audience, who exclaimed: "A pumpkin, by jingo!"

The Siamese Twins.—Chang and Eng, meaning right and left, lived to be 63 years of age. Chang was temperate and irritable. The other was sober and steady. In 1870 Chang had a paralytic shock in the night and died while his brother slept. When he awoke the calamity produced intense nervousness and Eng died in a few hours after the death of his brother. The post-mortem examination showed that their separation during life would probably have been fatal.

A Curious Tree.

Lieutenant Houghton, who has recently visited New Guinea and several other groups of Islands in the Pacific, reports the existence of a prehensile tree. It appears to be a species of figs, allied to the well-known banyan-tree, which throws out from its branches air roots, that eventually reach the ground, and take root there, and in their turn become new stems, which perform the same function; so that a single tree will eventually extend so far as to form a complete forest, in which the stems are united by the branches to each other. The prehensile tree in question similarly throws out from its branches long, flexible tendrils, which touching the ground, do not take root there, but twist around any article that may lie within their reach. After a time these quasi branches contract, so that they fail to reach the ground; but the finger-like processes continue to closely gripe the article round which they have twined themselves, and which are consequently suspended in mid-air. In this way, articles of considerable weight may be literally picked up from the ground and held in suspension.

AN ILLUSTRIOUS EXAMPLE.—A story is told of Randolph, of Roanoke, that wonderful child of genius, which is so replete with piquancy as to induce me to believe in its truth. A bitter personal enemy of the great Virginian became a candidate of the party to which the latter belonged. He stood, as was the custom of the old times, on that side of the court-house which was taken up by his party friends, greeting with friendly recognition those who cast their votes for him. When Randolph walked up to the polls and in a firm voice voted for his enemy, the latter advanced, with extended hand, to greet him. "I thank you, sir, I thank you, sir," he said, with some nervousness. Randolph put his hand very coolly behind him, squeaking forth at the same time, "I didn't vote for you, sir; I voted for the democratic party." — [Richmond Dispatch.]

VEGETABLE BUTTER.—N. Jepson, an English vegetarian, not wishing to use poor and adulterated animal fats, has sought a substitute, and found it in a composition for which the following is the formula: Take four ounces of the finest Brazilian nuts, pounded very fine in a mortar; four ounces pure olive oil; rub them into a smooth jelly; add eight ounces of fine wheat flour and a quarter of an ounce of salt. Rub the whole into a smooth paste, and use as butter. This would certainly be preferable to much that goes by the name of butter.

THE CASH SYSTEM.—One year has elapsed since we adopted the cash plan and there is not a dead head on our list. We have discontinued all papers when the subscriptions expired and we know of but one man who has taken offense. Most people like a paper that can be stopped without killing the editor or burning the office. Our subscription receipts have been increased 20 per cent. over any previous year, although the price was 25 per cent. less than heretofore. We will stick to the cash plan. Selah. — [South Kentuckian.]

A certain judge having asked a convicted prisoner if he had anything to say why judgment should not be passed upon him, the prisoner called to God to witness that he was innocent: "May God strike me dead, my lord, if I did it!" The judge waited for a moment, and then said: "As Providence has not seen fit to interpose in your case, it now becomes my duty to proceed to sentence you to be hung by the neck until you are dead."

There can be found no higher virtue than the love of truth. The man who deceives others must himself become the victim of morbid distrust. Knowing the deceit of his own heart and the falsehood of his own tongue, his eyes must be always filled with suspicion, and he must lose the greatest of all happiness—confidence in those who surround him.

A Cincinnati woman got up early to see the comet, and fell and broke her neck. Since then a number of Louisville men have tried to induce their wives to study astronomy early in the morning, but without success. They couldn't come over the old girls that way. — [Argus.]

A Charleston man is trying to secure the name and date of every person who has been hung in the United States. A chairman of vigilance committees will please send in such information as is at his command.

Memorial Day.

BY FATHER RYAN.
Gather the sacred dust
Of the warrior tried and true;
Who bore the flag of our nation's trust
And fell in the cause, though lost, still just,
And died for us and you.

Gather them, each and all,
From the private to the chief;
Come they from the hovel or the princely hall,
They tell for us, and for them should fall
The tears of a nation's grief.

Gather the corpses strewn
O'er many a battle-plain,
From many a grave that lies so lone,
Without a name and without a stone,
Gather the Southern slain.

We care not whence they came,
Dear is their lifeless clay;
Whether unknown or known to fame,
Their country and their cause the same—
They died—and we were the gay.

Wherever the brave have died,
They should not rest apart;
Lying, they struggled side by side;
Why should the hand of death divide
A single heart from heart?

Gather the sacred clay,
Whom'er it may rest;
Just as they marched to the bloody fray,
Just as they fell on the battle day,
Bury them breast to breast.

The women need not dread
This gathering of the brave;
Without sword or flag and with soundless tread,
We muster once more our deathless dead,
Out of each lonely grave.

The women need not frown,
They are all powerful now;
We gather them here and we lay them down,
And tears and prayers are the only crown,
We bring to breathe each brow.

And the dead must meet the dead
While the living are 'neath;
And the men whom Lee and Stonewall led,
And the hearts that once together bled,
Together shall sleep!

Is "DAMN" A CURSE WORD?—One of the questions in a suit before the District Court in Philadelphia is whether or not "damn" is a profane word. Blatant sinners will care little for the result, but the decision will be awaited with deep interest by a host of worthy men, and possibly by "devout" women not a few, who in moments of great physical and mental torture have found a grateful solace in the use of that compact and cogent expletive. The case is that of a printing establishment vs. a telephone company which removed its instrument because the latter was made the medium of profane and vulgar language; and "damn" is the test word.

HIGH TONED.—"Madam," said a man to an Arkansas lady, "I have very sad news for you. I was out West and attended your son in his last illness."

"What was the matter with him?" asked the lady.

"He died of Bright's disease."

"Well," she said, after a moment's pause, "if Charley was bent on dying, I am glad that he selected a fashionable disease. Charley always was high-toned, though."

A patent has just been taken out in Germany for an engine, the piston of which is driven backward and forward by small charges of powder supplied at each end by an automatic arrangement. The ignition is effected by the motion of the piston, which draws in a flame of gas or spirit, the access being regulated by the side valves, which also open outlets for the escape of the gases of combustion.

Tradition says that beer was first made at Pelusium, on the Nile, 400 B. C.; but nowadays only a crude kind of barley beer is made by the natives in Egypt. There is, however, a brewery in Cairo, owned by a Geneva company, and worked on the German system, which can turn out 400 barrels a week.

Mulhall, the English statistician, makes out this country the richest on the globe. He estimates that the value of property in the United States is $50,000,000,000. He places England next in rank, with $44,100,000,000; and France third, with $37,200,000,000.

Walton, of the Stanford Journal, has great backbone and energy, all of which he displays in his paper. His selections show rare good taste and there is a sprightly style about his writings that always makes them interesting. — [Elizabethtown News.]

There is considerable difference between lawyers and doctors handling a case. The more lawyers there are in a case the longer the case will last, but the more doctors there are in a case the shorter work they make of it. — [Texas Sittings.]

Here is an extract from a genuine love letter, which an exchange vouches for: "Dearest love, I have swallowed the postage stamp which was on your letter, because I knew that your lips had touched it."

Horse Trading and Theology.

A Hudson river farmer, who wanted a better horse than he possessed, drove into Yonkers one day with his nag, and hunting up a certain citizen who had the sort of horse he wanted, the farmer stated his desire to exchange, and added: "I understand you are a Christian man?" "Yes, sir," "Belong to the Baptist Church?" "Yes." "One of the deacons, I believe?" "I am." A trade was made, and the farmer drove home with the new equine. But in the course of three days he returned and began: "See here, deacon, what kind of a man are you? You never told me that that horse I got of you had spavins and ringbones and heaves?" "No, I believe I didn't." "Well, you are a pretty Christian, you are!" "My friend," placidly replied the good man, "if you can find it any where in the good book that a deacon in the Baptist church must point out the defects in his own horse where a sinner is too ignorant to see for himself, I'll admit my sin and trade back. Come in and we'll hunt for the passage!" — [Wall Street News.]

When anybody dies, gets married, builds a house, makes a big sale, breaks his leg, gets the sense kicked out of him by a mule, or does anything that is in any way remarkable, and you have reason to believe that you know as much about the occurrence as anybody else, don't wait for some other person to report it, or trust us to find it out by instinct, but come and tell us about it, or send the facts on a postal card. In this way news is supplied, and it takes a good supply of that necessary article to make a good home paper. Let us know every item of news that transpires in your neighborhood.

Two little Austin school boys got into a quarrel, and one of them said to the other:

"If it wasn't for your Ma being such a good woman, I'd tear your shirt all to pieces!"

"You tear my shirt if you dare!"

"I ain't going to tear it, because your Ma would have to mend it, and I don't want to put her to any trouble because she gave me two cakes the other day." — [Texas Sittings.]

THE ONLY CURE FOR NEURALGIA.—An excellent liniment for neuralgia is made of sassafras, oil of orange, and a half ounce of tincture of capsicum, with a half pint of alcohol. Soak nine yards of red flannel in this mixture, wrap it around the head, and then insert the head in a haystack till death comes to your relief. — [Laramie Boomerang.]

Spirits of turpentine is now made from sawdust and refuse of the saw mill. It is extracted by a sweating process and yields fourteen gallons of spirits, three to four gallons of rosin and a quantity of tar per cord. The spirits produced has a different odor from that produced by distillation.

A Chicago minister makes a note of the fact that he has never seen a lady reading a newspaper in a street-car. Well! He has never seen a lady smoking on a car platform either, has he? It simply goes to show that a lady is no gentleman. — [Savannah Times.]

Observations upon Russian railways have resulted in showing that for the period of six months 77 per cent of the fractures of tires occurred when the temperature was below zero, 4 per cent at zero, and only 19 per cent at higher temperatures.

A dispute among pall-bearers at a funeral in Wyoming ended in two being stabbed and three being knocked down. People who might have attended and didn't, are so disgusted with themselves they don't know what to do.

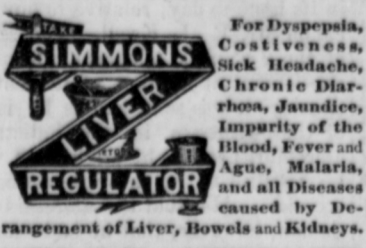

It has at length been ascertained who struck Billy Patterson. It was Jay Hubbell. Billy Patterson was a Government clerk and Jay struck him for assessment. — [Cincinnati Saturday Night.]

Never hold any one by the button or the hand, in order to be heard out; for if people are unwilling to hear you, you had better hold your tongue than them. — [Chesterfield.]

A Vermont clergyman, unmarried, preached a sermon against the present style of corsets as unhealthy, and the next day the deacons fired him out for knowing too much.

Twice as many men were lynched last year as were hanged. Lynching is rapidly taking the place of the base-ball and other out-of-door sports.

"Do you ever go to meetings?" asked a minister of a blue-grass Kentuckian. "Certainly, sir; twice a year—Spring meeting and Fall meeting."

For Dyspepsia, Costiveness, Sick Headache, Chronic Diarrhoea, Jaundice, Impurity of the Blood, Fever and Ague, Malaria, and all Diseases caused by Derangement of Liver, Bile and Kidneys.

SYMPTOMS OF A DISEASED LIVER.
Bad Breath; Pain in the Side, sometimes the pain is felt under the Shoulder blade, mistaken for Rheumatism; general loss of appetite; Bowels generally constipated, sometimes alternating with lax; the head is troubled with pain, is dull and heavy, with considerable loss of memory, accompanied with a painful sensation of leaving nothing something which ought to have been done; a slight, dry cough and flushed face is sometimes an attendant, often mistaken for consumption; the patient complains of weariness and debility; nervous, easily startled; feet cold or burning, sometimes a prickling sensation of the skin exists, spirits are low and despondent, and, although satisfied that exercise would be beneficial, yet one can hardly summon up fortitude to try it—in fact, distrusts every remedy. Several of the above symptoms attend the disease, but none have occurred, when but few of them existed, yet examination after death has shown the Liver to have been extensively diseased.

It should be used by all persons, old and young, whenever any of the above symptoms appear.

Persons Traveling or Living in Unhealthy Localities, by taking a dose occasionally to keep the Liver in healthy action, will avoid all Malaria, Bilious attacks, Headache, Nausea, Drowsiness, Depression of Spirits, etc. It will invigorate like a glass of wine, but is no intoxicating beverage.

If you have eaten anything hard of digestion, or feel heavy after meals, or sleepless at night, take a dose and you will be relieved. Time and Doctors' Bills will be saved by always keeping the Regulator in the House!

For whatever the ailment may be, a thoroughly safe purgative, alternative and tonic can never be out of place. The remedy is harmless and does not interfere with business or pleasure.

IT IS PURELY VEGETABLE.
And has all the power and efficacy of Calomel or Quinine, without any of the injurious after effects.

A Governor's Testimony.
Simmons' Liver Regulator has been in use in my family for some time, and I am satisfied it is a valuable addition to the medical science.

J. GILL SHORTELL, Governor of Ala.
Hon. Alexander H. Stephens, of Ga., says: Have derived some benefit from the use of Simmons' Liver Regulator, and wish to give it a further trial.

"The only thing that never fails to Relieve."—I have used many remedies for Dyspepsia, Liver Affection and Biliousity, but never found anything to benefit me so much as Simmons' Liver Regulator has. I sent from Minnesota to Georgia for it, and would send further for such a medicine, and would advise all who are similarly affected to give it a trial as it seems the only thing that never fails to relieve.

P. M. JANNEY, Minneapolis, Minn.
Dr. T. W. Mason says: From actual experience in the use of Simmons' Liver Regulator in my practice I have been and am satisfied to use and prescribe it as a purgative medicine.

THE ALBION HARROW, CULTIVATOR & SEEDER.

Three First-Class Implements Combined in One.

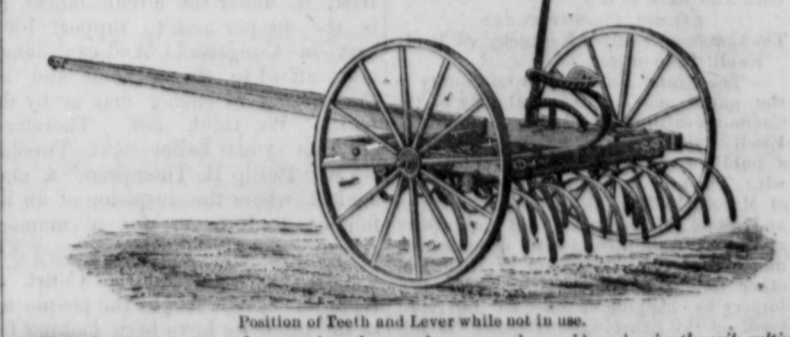

Making the best and cheapest implement ever produced. An implement that is indispensable in every crop cultivated.

The Albion Spring-Tooth Sifted Harrow and Seeder.
For less money than required to obtain a grain drill, which can only be utilized in one crop, this implement can be had, which will put in all kinds of small grain in the very best manner in less time and with less labor than the best grain drill made.

Position of Teeth and Lever while at work.
Then by detaching the Seeder you have the best Harrow in the world, one that will do more work in once going over the ground than an ordinary harrow will in a dozen, besides doing the work faster and with more ease.

Position of Teeth and Lever while not in use.
After planting your crop, by removing three teeth you can thoroughly pulverize the soil, cultivate and destroy the weeds in two rows of corn at a time, a thing that no other cultivator will do. As first stated, here is an implement that can be used in every crop cultivated and one that is excelled in none by any other implement, durable and simple. Farmers, come and see it, get a sample and try it. If it does not do what we claim for it, we do not want your money.

Hon. T. B. Montgomery's Testimonial.—I have cultivated my crop of corn this season with the Albion Combined Cultivator, Harrow and Seeder and can say without hesitation that it is the best harrow or cultivator I have ever seen. Can plow ten acres of corn a day with all ease. It does its work perfectly, and I can cheerfully recommend it to my farmer friends. Thus B. Montgomery.

To sow grain with this Seeder no extra hand is required to clean it from fifth as it is all done by the driver without stopping or getting off his seat.

LITTLE DICK'S RECORD.

As Shown by the Record of the Courts.
The Charges Sustained by Them.

When we printed charges against the personal character of R. L. Ewell, the alleged candidate of the republic party for Congress, we did so in good faith upon the statements of men whose word is as good as their oath. We could not have been induced to do so otherwise, first, because we would not publish a lie if we knew it nor would we wantonly assail the character of any man; and second, because we know what is libel and do not care to figure in the courts as defendant to a suit of that character. Now as we heretofore stated, we have not one iota of ill feeling against Mr. Ewell, for we were favorably impressed by the straight forward manner in which he introduced himself to us; nor would a desire to subvert party ends cause us to malign or abuse him. But when we did publish what we were assured were facts, supported by the records of the courts, we certainly expected much more convincing proof that the charges were false, than the unsupported word of Logan McKee, whose zeal for his party and position of distillery watch, have induced him to believe that he is worthy to fill the $5,000 office so successfully administered by Col. A. M. Swope and who has gained some notoriety by reason of his efforts to have his superior officer ordered down and out to make place for himself. This young fellow rushes in to print to say that "no one but a coward would make such base, false and slanderous charges." We have made no charges ourselves against Mr. Ewell and of course these brave and big-sounding words can not refer to us, but we will say to Mr. McKee that no one but a fool would think he has "refuted the slander" as the Louisville Commercial head-lines it, by a simple denial from him. We admit that his word is as good as any ordinary man's, but what is an ordinary man's word worth when it comes in diametrical opposition to the sworn records of a court of justice? And we say that in this instance Mr. McKee is either ignorant of the existence of the records referred to or willfully misrepresents them. He further says that Mr. Ewell is commissioned by the Christian Church as a minister of the gospel. Here he shows his utter ignorance again; for that Church does not commission, but allows any body to preach who can get an audience. Why, Mr. McKee himself could join that Church to day and go to preaching tomorrow, if any body were fool enough to go to hear him. But enough of Mr. McKee. He is not our mutton in this case, and we will return to it.

The first charge made against Mr. Ewell is that of stealing "a little red hog." We had this information from a gentleman of unquestioned veracity who declared that Judge Faubus told him of it; that the case was tried before him and that a compromise was effected by Mr. Ewell paying for the hog. His friends, however, deny the charge of stealing but admit that there was a civil suit against Mr. Ewell for a hog, which on the first trial of the case resulted in a victory for Mr. Ewell; but on the second, the other man was successful and Mr. E. lost the hog. The republicans we understand have obtained a certificate from Gen. Jarvis Jackson that he never heard of Mr. E. being "accused of hog stealing and thinks he is a gentleman," but the General is getting old and may have forgotten. Judge Faubus lives in Jackson county, and of course we could not get a statement directly from him for this issue, but we have been referred to him for that and other crooked doings of Mr. Ewell. Investigation proves that we had grounds sufficient for the charge as published. The second charge was of forging county records. We have taken the trouble and expense of getting a certified copy of the proceedings in that case and here it is:

LAUREL CIRCUIT COURT.
The Commonwealth of Kentucky vs. R. L. Ewell, Indictment.

The Grand Jury of Laurel county in the name and by the authority of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, accuse R. L. Ewell of the offense of forgery by altering a public record committed as follows, to-wit: The said R. L. Ewell on the 1st day of March, 1875, in the county of Laurel and State of Kentucky, did unlawfully and with fraudulent intent of collecting money from the creditors of E. Elam and other fraudulent purposes, did commit a forgery by changing in order on the record book of the Laurel County Court, as follows: The County Judge of Laurel County Court at the regular term of said Court for Feb. 1874, had made on the order book of said Court the following order, to-wit: "D. D. Elam, Sen. is hereby appointed guardian for D. D. Elam, Jun., who entered into bond with C. W. Catching, security, and took the oath required by law."

That afterwards and after the said Ewell ceased to be clerk of the Laurel County Court and without the knowledge or consent of the Judge of the Laurel County Court, added to the above named or recited order, the following words, to-wit: "Also adm'r of E. Elam, bond with R. L. Ewell, security, which said addition was made with the fraudulent purpose of enabling

D. D. Elam to collect money belonging to going to the estate of E. Elam, dec'd."

That said R. L. Ewell for the purpose of enabling him to carry out and have carried out the aforesaid fraudulent purpose and designs, did unlawfully and with a fraudulent intent enter in the adm'r. bond book of the Laurel County Court, a bond purporting to be a bond of D. D. Elam, as adm'r. of E. Elam, and entering at the bottom of the bond "Approved by the Court" with the name of D. D. Elam and R. L. Ewell, signed to the bond, D. D. Elam, principal, and R. L. Ewell, security, and said bond approved aforesaid. "Attest, R. L. Ewell, Clerk of the Laurel Circuit Court," when the fact and in truth, at the time said bond was drawn up and signed, D. D. Elam had not been appointed adm'r. of the estate of E. Elam, and the said R. L. Ewell was not the Clerk of the Laurel County Court and had no power or authority to draw up or attest said bond as aforesaid. All of which was done without the knowledge or consent of the Judge of the Laurel County Court or of any other person authorized to give authority.

All of which foregoing alterations of the public record of the Laurel County Court were done for the fraudulent purpose aforesaid and against the peace and dignity of the Commonwealth of Kentucky.

DISHELMAN, Com'th. Atty., pro tem.
Witnesses: Levi Jackson, C. W. Jones, J. J. Weaver, for C. W. Jones a sub donec tecum to bring into Court the record referred to. Endorsed "A true bill."

ANDREW JACKSON, Foreman.
August Term, 1876, 2nd day - Common-wealth vs. R. L. Ewell.

This day came the def't. and filed a answer to the indictment herein and the same is submitted to the Court.

8th Day Aug. Term 1876 - Commonwealth vs. R. L. Ewell.

This day came the parties and the def't. withdrew the demurrer to the indictment and waived an arraignment and plead not guilty, and thereupon came a jury, to-wit: Jesse H. Westerfield, John C. Brown, Thomas Jones, B. F. Johnson, Ben Magee, Nicholas Ball, Wm. Ball, John Allen, Sparks Jones, Sam'l Magee, K. N. Faragin and John Sparks, who were duly sworn to try the issue and thereupon W. W. Watkins, security of the def't. came into Court and undertook that the def't. should obey the orders of the Court until the case is submitted to the jury, and the jury having heard the evidence in part were dispersed till 9 o'clock to-morrow morning, first being admonished by the Court as the law requires.

9th Day, Aug. Term 1876 - Commonwealth vs. R. L. Ewell.

The Jury sworn herein having heard the evidence, instructions of the Court and argument of the counsel, returned the following verdict: "We of the Jury find the def't. not guilty as charged in the indictment. J. C. Brown, foreman."

It is therefore ordered that the def't. be discharged.

By A. B. BROWN, D. C.

As we said before and which we now re-iterate after investigation, Mr. Ewell's acquittal did not satisfy a goodly number of his fellow-citizens, who are still of the opinion that he was guilty. The guardian's bond that the indictment grew out of is copied into the Bond Record Book, a good many pages behind other and similar bonds that bear date before the bond signed as security. His friends admit this but try to explain it or avoid the consequences by saying that the unusual position of the bond in the book was inadvertently made by turning over more leaves than one and left blank by mistake, which blank was filled with the Ewell bond subsequently. There are one of two things certain, according to the specifications of the indictment, either the Judge and Clerk were ignoramuses or that a forgery was committed, and since Mr. Ewell was chiefly interested, suspicion would necessarily point to him.

In the first place, if the proceedings were regular, why was an administrator's bond attached to a guardian's bond? They are entirely dissimilar in their nature and separate books are used for recording the bonds. Then if Mr. Ewell was Clerk at the time the record is claimed to have been made, how could he become security on an administrator's or any other fiduciary bond, when chap. 33, art. II, sec. 32, General Statutes, provides that a clerk shall in no case be taken as such. The whole thing has a bad odor and the smell continues to hang around the clothes of the poor, persecuted, slandered man of God, the Right Rev. R. L. Ewell.

The third and last charge was that of bringing a slander suit against a man who charged that he had seen him in a questionable attitude with a certain woman, and that he agreed with the defendant after the case was removed to Knox, that if he would confess judgment for $5,000 he would remit, and did remit the entire amount. We had not time to get the record of the matter but a prominent gentleman tells us that we stated the facts entirely as they occurred, as he himself is witness. If this is not true let Mr. Ewell produce the record to refute it.

It is useless to comment on these charges. We have given the record of the Court and the statements of gentlemen whose testimony is unimpeachable and leave it to a just public to draw its conclusions. Mr. Ewell may be a saint but it is hardly probable that there would be such smoke enveloping him were there not some fire, and we ask the voters of this district, if, under the circumstances, he is the proper man to support for a seat in Congress? And can democrats afford to stay at home and let the election of such a man go by default? We think not. Therefore, see that your ballot next Tuesday reads "Philip B. Thompson," a man against whom the suspicion of an infamous deed never for a moment rested.

The Governor and the Court of Appeals have wrought the people up to the pitch we have been looking for all along, by the wholesale abuse of the pardoning power on the one hand and the sticking for technicalities on the other. A mob in Boyd county fired upon the State Militia as it was coming down the Ohio in the steamer Granite State with the prisoners, Neal and Craft, who had obtained a change of venue to Carter county, when the troops returned the fire, killing 8 men and wounding 23 others, including women and children. The larger number of the killed and wounded were only spectators which makes the matter all the worse. The troops were unarmed. It is a terrible state of affairs when men because of the laxness of administration of the laws, think they ought to take criminals in hand, and we tremble to know that there is some excuse for the thought in this lawless State.

The Danville Tribune will have a denunciatory telegram from London in its issue to day, relative to our article on Mr. R. L. Ewell. The sender of the Tribune's telegram informed a gentleman at London of its contents the day it was sent, and as he is one of the witnesses in the indictment aforesaid, perhaps he might tell what he testified to on that interesting (?) occasion. He told the aforesaid gentleman, however, that he had "forgotten the character of his testimony." Some folks, memory is all too short, (on some occasions.)

NOTES OF CURRENT EVENTS.

—The October debt reduction is about $15,250,000.

—At Paris, Kentucky, Tuesday evening, Bart Scully a well-known horse-trainer, was killed by Hooker Stivers.

—The first general snow-storm of the season occurred in Dakota and Montana, the 30th, on the Northern Pacific.

—The wife of Hon. D. L. Moore, State Senator from Mercer, died at her husband's residence, in Harrodsburg, Tuesday.

—Ex-Governor Jas. F. Robinson died at Georgetown Tuesday, and Major Philip Needill died in Louisville Wednesday.

—Seaton Reese has been nominated to fill Gov. Stephens' unexpired term in Congress. He has no opposition, the Independent candidate having withdrawn.

—Philip B. Swing for eleven years past Judge of the United States Court for the Southern district of Ohio, died at his home in Batavia, Tuesday. The deceased was sixty-two.

—The Treasury Department has just completed the statement of the amount appropriated at the last session of Congress in the several appropriation bills. The total is $261,425,117.

—The eve of the opening of the Virginia State Fair was celebrated in Richmond with a civic and military parade, which appears to have been a big thing on wheels and hoofs.

—Abbey's Park Theatre, New York, in which Mrs. Langtry was to have made her American debut in "An Unequal Match" Monday evening, burned at 4:30 o'clock that afternoon. The loss on the theatre is estimated at $191,000. Mrs. Langtry will make her debut at Wallack's Opera-house on Monday evening next.

MARY JANE ANSWERS THE HUSTONVILLE INQUIRY.

CINCINNATI, OHIO, Oct. 30th, 1882.

The gentleman who your paper was directed containing a notice of myself by that Hustonville correspondent, has handed me the same and I have read the article. Distance and circumstances alone preserve to your Hustonville. I am ordinarily a woman of grave and quiet character, admiring rather than the pleasure, the butcher knife, but that does not prevent me praying earnestly that that young man should remain eternally in H—, and H—doesn't always stand for Hustonville either.

I have noticed that whenever a woman shows a desire or capacity to rise above the usual husband-endling, cradle-rocking, housekeeping style of female, there is always some man (I hate 'em) to jump up and try to drag her down as near his own level as he can. He is often a good fellow, that he will even, when there is uncertainty as to her identity, charge her with being a man. Great Heavens, if all the women were men, and had been so for the last 2,000 years, there wouldn't have been a mourner at the foot of the Cross on Calvary's dark and dismal day, not one!

Like another illustrious character in history and petticoats, I want to be let alone. Let 'em jump on Dickey all they please, because she deserves a bouncing, but not me, not me.

I'm not in the business of investigating the identity of men, (drat 'em, I don't care if they haven't got enough identity to distinguish them from a shovelful of dirt, and pretty mean dirt at that) and I don't want them nosing around me.

That's all I've got to say and that's the way with the bark on it. And now Mr. Editor, you'd better be careful yourself.

Not yours, MARY JANE.

P. S.—Don't get this mixed up with any of Bro. Barnes' letters. We are pretty much in the same case though, for he's fighting the devil and I'm fighting his imps. Praise the Lord. M. J.

"PRAISE THE LORD."

NORWICH, CONN., Oct. 28, 1882.

Dear Interior:—

Early impressions received a severe shock as I rode out with a friend to visit one of the famous New England Cotton Mills, we have all read about. By the way side, a little outside the city limits, in a field just sown in wheat, stands a small grassy mound, surrounded by a square block of granite, with the words "AN TANOUM, 1643, deeply cut and gilt. This is the spot where, at that date, fell the great Narragansett Chief of that name, brained by a tomahawk in a treacherous hand, while a helpless prisoner. He was slain at the instigation of my old friend, Uncas, who, with his tribe were the sworn foes of the Narragansetts, though both tribes were friendly to the whites. My once heroic Uncas, it is said, cut a piece of raw flesh from the shoulder of his dead foe, he smacked his lips and said it tasted very good. Down fell my friend from his pedestal, never more to be reinstated, I doubt; for in my thoughts now, I only see the brutal savage, with all the ferocious instincts of his kind, and away goes the gentle, manly, intrepid, handsome "Last of the Mohicans," as accepted from Cooper's wondrous tale. It would go a little harder with me to give him up, were I not so used to parting with old friends for the sake of Uncas eating a bit out of the shoulder of Mianusom! What a brute! I am glad he was the last of the Mohicans. Let the breed of monsters die out. More than a Cannibal, who at least prefers to be cooked, if undertaken, as Robinson Crusoe tells us. Ah me! he was a myth too. There was and is no Crusoe. Well, let the whole lot go. It is a waste of granite, keeping up the wharving of such fellows as U. and M. Stopped breathing. That is the conviction of my recollection. I may modify my judgment when I cool off.

The Taltville mill is a stupendous affair of 75,000 spindles, I am told; five stories above ground and three below; working 2,000 hands and making a large village in itself, with stores, workshops, and other concomitants. We saw the familiar cotton bale in the lowest story of the huge building and followed it up to the attic where it came out the desired fabric. All wonderful and indescribable. This enterprise is only 12 years old, but one of the largest establishments on the continent, under a single roof. 100 windows in a row give an idea of the length of the building, with its two great towers and majestic architectural proportions. A very fine and complete dam across the Black River supplies the coveted "water power" in abundance. This dam is a series of arches on the same principle exactly as an arch bridge only lying on its side instead of standing up, with the arches side by side, of course. I never saw one like it before, though the plan may be common enough, for aught I know.

Every day, Bro. Barker and I mount a new summit and get another view of this lovely Norwich. The weather is almost perfect. Night before last we had the first nipping frost of the season and it was no great thing, only scorching tender plants a little.

The figures stand to date, conversions, 77,000,000; 47,000,000 of specific blessings at the F. M. services, 140. But this does not tell all. The ice is melting, the blind prejudices are yielding; the ministers are beginning to rally around us. And the "no small stir" of the first week is giving place to the earnestness of conviction of truth in many. The outlook now is decidedly promising, only I look not at "outlooks" good or bad, but only at a promising Jesus. I am glad though for the pleasant change.

A raw Kenuckian let loose in New England, is not unlike a "bull in a china shop." The commotion was terrible, and at first it looked as if nothing could bring the discordant elements together. I had no end of warnings that I had mistaken my latitude and if I expected to succeed with cultured people I must drop labels, coarse news, humor, vulgarity, etc. I think I have been, without intending it, a little rougher than usual here. At present, however, whether the bull has ceased to bellow and horn and hoof, or whether the people have got used to the animal and put up with his unpleasantness for the sake of what is good in him, the fact remains that I am beginning to have the ear of Norwich, with all its cultivation thrown in. For which I only PRAISE THE LORD.

I believe that such is the way of the LORD. I do believe HIS will overturns Yankees, slaying heaps upon heaps with this rough "jawbone of an ass" from the despised South. I am content to be that homely weapon in our true Samson's hand. Culture, education, pride, are to be won, in the LORD'S battle by their opponents. He takes things that are despised, "to bring to naught things that are," that "no flesh may glory in HIS presence." So whenever the South is Evangelized (God grant my native land may soon know this blessing), I believe, that in the LORD'S way, it will all be effected through the hands of despised Yankee, whom the proud Southerner would have "disdained to set among the dogs of his flock," as Job once said.

And this goes again though contrary to man's way, that "no flesh may glory in HIS presence." (ON the depths of His wisdom and knowledge of GOD. How unsearchable are His judgments and His ways past finding out.)

Certain it is that I came to New England though no will of my own. "If against my will, then a dispensation of the gospel committee." And I feel this in every bone of my body and hair of my head. To make known an "unknown God." This is my mission, I know I shall succeed. This brought me from Kentucky, when the full tide of success had set in. I came from Cincinnati when there was every indication of a thorough and extensive work in the city. Other hands and hearts will be the instruments of that blessing in both that city and Dayton in the early future, but my work is here. How strange it is to me. I wonder in it all, but follow one "Prayer" that utterance be given. That is all I want. Ever in Jesus.

—GEO. O. BARNES.

TAKEWELL, TENN., Oct. 30th, 1882.

Dear Interior:—

Your kind offer of a place in your columns is accepted with much pleasure, and I trust that your readers may enjoy the perusal of these letters as much as I shall the writing. It will be a connecting link between many of my friends and myself, for, as much as I would like to write to all of them, yet my time is so limited that I am obliged to cut down even my small list of correspondents. I know how many of your homes are invaded by prolonged my letters to an unconscionable length. I suppose it must seem strange to your readers, who only remember me as a rather wild boy, to hear of my being an Evangelist, but such is the joyful fact. I can hardly realize it as yet, and feel as if I would wake some fine day and find myself still "Business Manager" of "Le Troupe Evangelistique." You know, doubtless, about our departure from Cincinnati for Tennessee? Our "quartette" is composed of Messrs. T. C. Barnum, J. L. Garver and myself, as evangelists, and C. C. Palmer as our Sankey. He has a beautiful voice and when I accompany him on the organ we have good music. Praise the Lord, for without music evangelizing is poor work. I speak from experience, as I will tell you, directly. Before starting, a troupe and quartette held a consultation over the map, and we decided to go down on the C. S. Ry. and drop off at the first county seat east of the road, Jacksboro proved to be the place, and despite "Bro. Snodgrass' (you all know him) declaring that it was the jumping off place, we decided to go there. So leaving the others in Cincinnati we ran down on the C. S. R. R. to Huntsville, passing through all of Kentucky without seeing a familiar face, save one.

At Huntsville we stayed a week, preaching night and day and "getting into the harness," so to speak. The Lord gave us 7 souls and 11 anointed there, and paid our board and transit to Jacksboro. How gladly we said "Praise the Lord" you can never know unless you commence work and get 7 souls in 7 days as we did. So we went down to J. "gathering suddenly that the Lord had sent us." Stayed in J. three weeks. After the first week, Barnum went to Caryville, three miles from J. to hold a meeting. I went to Big Creek, 4 miles the other way, for the same purpose, leaving Garver and Palmer in J. At the Gap I had the triple role of organist, singer and preacher to perform, and you may imagine how I longed for my singer when I gave the invitation for confessions. I either had to sing solo without the organ, or else start the congregation off on some old familiar hymn. I generally chose the latter. In spite of drawbacks, the Lord gave me 25 converts and 27 anointed. Barnum got at C. 45 converts and 72 anointed. All met at J. the last day, being Sunday, and had a glorious time, and 28 confessions, reminding me of one of my father's meetings. Praise the Lord. So the total of our success to date is 177 confessions and 147 anointed. Do you not see the wonderful multiples of the glorious number 7 and 11? If numbers mean anything we may judge most favorably of our future work by this repetition of them. But we do not seek a sign, and only look for success because the Lord has promised it.

The meeting here has been in progress for four days, but no confessions yet. We are trusting for 200 converts here. The people look with suspicion on the anointing, but we know the dear Savior will take care of that part of the work. It is amusing how the people work us. At J. they took us for Methodists looking for proselytes. Shades of Brigham! To think that four innocents should be so maligned. Here the people do not know what to make of us, but will find us harmless after awhile. We will remain here two weeks at least. I will be happy to send you a letter from time to time, if you will. One thing we ask, and that, your prayers that "our faith fail not," and then we will be certain of success, for according to our faith shall it be done unto us. Praise the Lord. Ever in Him.

—W. C. BARNES.

Hotel in Hustonville, Ky.,
now occupied by S. C. Powell. The building contains about 20 rooms. There is a splendid garden and a commodious stable and lot with never-failing well on it, also a vacant lot across the street opposite the stable. Parties desiring such property would find it to their interest to see this before purchasing elsewhere. It is surrounded by as rich blue-grass, stock-raising country as there is in the State. There are 3 churches 2 public schools in the place. The people are generous and scrupulous to a fault. There is a constant stream of commercial and other travel through the place. Everything thing tends to make it one of the most desirable and profitable hotel stands in the State. Don't forget the day; every body comes. Terms made known on the day of sale.
